Medical Society Names New Manager of Community Relations

Newark, Delaware - The Medical Society of Delaware is pleased to announce Mary S. Fenimore has joined MSD as the Manager of Community Affairs. Mary comes to MSD with a strong background in journalism and communication having worked as a television news reporter, anchor and producer in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania and Charlottesville, Virginia. Mary also has vast experience in marketing, event planning, fundraising, and community outreach where since 2008 she has maintained her own public relations, communications and marketing consulting company. She has experience in healthcare, working as a Trustee and Communications Director for the The Brady Kohn Foundation and Director of Development for Planned Parenthood of the Blue Ridge.

Mary will directly manage and oversee media and public relations, community health outreach and development for the Medical Society of Delaware. Mary will also help to build and sustain strategic relationships with key constituencies within the healthcare industry in Delaware and work to enhance the identity and public awareness of MSD.

Medical Society of Delaware President Prayus Tailor, MD said, "we are all very excited to have Mary join the MSD team. Her broad experience and enthusiasm will be a great addition to an already dynamic group. I am looking forward to working with her."

"I am honored and excited to be part of this impressive and dedicated organization. It is clear what the Medical Society of Delaware offers its members and contributes to the medical community through its mission is tremendously important and I'm eager to join in making a difference," said Fenimore."

Mary is a graduate from the University of Mary Washington in Fredericksburg, Virginia. Mary, who lives in North Wilmington, is the mother of three children who attend Wilmington Friends School and Mount Pleasant High School.
