Delaware Medical Journal Looking for COVID-19 Case Studies

From Peter Rocca, MD - Delaware Medical Journal Editor-in-Chief:

Our community is facing a health crisis the likes of which it has not seen since the flu pandemic of 1918. The Delaware medical community needs to hear from its colleagues about their experience. We at the DMJ encourage you to submit for publication any information about the evaluation and management of COVID-19 that you believe is clinically relevant and helpful to other Delaware physicians. We realize that the current crisis is placing extra pressure on your time which may restrict your ability to put pen to paper. The way out of this crisis, however, is by working together. To that end, the DMJ staff hopes you will be able to find the time to help educate your fellow clinicians. Thank you for your consideration. Read Instructions to Authors.
